REV 10/04

selecting a procedure including a second sequence of steps for manufacturing the second product, selecting a second set of tools for carrying out the second sequence of steps, engineering a second positional arrangement for the second set of tools to be held on the surface adjacent the work station, the arrangement being configured to maximize execution efficiency of the second sequence of steps by designating a site on the surface for each tool in the second set where the tool resides when not being used, obtaining a second set of tool-identifying markers for the second set of tools, each of the markers having a mechanism for being reversibly located adjacent the respective site on the surface, removing at least some of the first set of tool-identifying markers from the surface, attaching the second set of tool-identifying markers to the surface according to the second positional arrangement, and mounting the second set of tools at their respective sites on the surface.

10. (Original) The method of claim 8, further comprising replacing the second set of tool-identifying markers with the first set of tool-identifying markers according to the first positional arrangement.

11. (Original) The method of claim 8, wherein the tool-identifying markers have shapes that resemble the tool they identify.

12. (Original) The method of claim 8, wherein the tool-identifying markers are magnetized.
